Located in Brendan Byrne State Forest, Whitesbog is an active cranberry and blueberry farm surrounded by beautiful sandy roads, blue water reservoirs, Atlantic White Cedar woodland trails and lovely gardens of Pinelands natives. Perfect for a ceremony, party, retreat, workshop, team builder, shower or performance event.

Cranberry farming began here in 1857 and expanded until it was the largest cranberry farm in New Jersey in the 1920's. The buildings have been lovingly restored by Whitesbog Preservation Trust, the non-profit that cares for the village.

Seasonal changes are easily viewed in the village which hosts events year-round, including Spring native plant walks in the garden, blueberry picking in July, cranberry picking in October, Fall campfire and Halloween events and Winter tundra swan tours and snowy Moonlight Hikes.
